

London Market Opens

Diminishing Importance Put on Gold

LONDON (AP) — London's gold market reopened today and with indications gold's monetary role may be diminishing, there was no major bonanza for speculators whose buying rush closed the market 17 days ago.

This weekend's agreement in Stockholm to create "paper gold"—a new form of international credits for world trade—dealt speculators their biggest blow in months.

In effect, the world's major non-Communist trading nations, excluding France, agreed to accept each other's paper promises to repay part of their trading debts without the security of gold. This could be the first step on a long road leading to the end of gold as money, meaning a decline in the demand for the metal and drop in its price.

The price in the London free market ranged in early trading from $37.50 to $38 an ounce, less than $3 above the price of $35 formerly guaranteed by the United States and six other nations.

In Paris gold prices dipped for the fourth straight trading session today, following the weekend monetary decisions.

The price was the equivalent of $38.08 an ounce, the lowest since March 20. Volume continued relatively high—$5,011,000.

To keep the price down in the face of a gold rush which indicated lack of confidence in paper money, the gold pool nations had to supply gold from their own stocks to meet the demand.

At a meeting in Washington March 17, they decided to continue to settle accounts among themselves by transferring gold at $35 an ounce. But they decided to leave the free market price to fluctuate with supply and demand.

When the London market closed March 15, markets in Paris, Zurich and elsewhere remained open. To the surprise of some authorities and the shock of some gold hoarders, the price of gold rose less than $10 and then fell back.

Reserve Call-Up Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense officials disclosed today the administration is planning a three-phase callup of military reserve forces which would involve the mobilization of around 60,000 men in coming months.

Within the next three days the Defense Department will order up at least a few thousand troops to help meet the increase of about 13,500 for the Vietnam war, just authorized by President Johnson.

A second phase of reserve callup is expected later to replace a Marine unit which was dispatched to the war zone recently as an emergency measure following the Communists' Tet holiday offensive.

Defense officials said the replacement of the Marines would involve an unspecified number of Army reservists.

US Ships Silence Guns While Planes Reduce Bomb Missions

SAIGON (AP) — American bombers and warships halted their attacks on most of North Vietnam today, one day after strikes close to Hanoi, Haiphong and the Chinese border.

The cutback in the bombing ordered by President Johnson was the 10th curtailment in the air war against the Communist North since it began on Feb. 7, 1965.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters said the reduction in the bombing was in effect by the time the President began his television statement announcing it, at 10 a.m. Saigon time.

The U.S. Command said American fighter-bombers confined their attacks on North Vietnam today to the area just above the demilitarized zone, hitting enemy storage complexes, truck convoys and gun positions.

Only a few hours before, the U.S. Command announced that American planes on Sunday attacked the Cat Bi airfield four

One-Man, One Vote Regulation Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today put local government under its one-man, one-vote rule.

The historic 5-3 decision extends the rule to an estimated 80,000 units of local government throughout the land.

One of the dissenters, John M. Harlan, said the decision was

Haggerman Residence Destroyed

A pet dog that was given credit for saving the lives of the Olin Haggerman family, Versailles, died in the fire which destroyed the Haggerman residence Sunday, it was reported today.

According to reports, defective wiring was blamed as the cause of the fire which destroyed the house and its contents about 2 a.m. Sunday. Janie Haggerman, sources said, was alerted by a pet dog. She arose and woke her parents and other children in the house. They escaped to safety.

The dog, another smaller dog, a cat, several kittens and about 100 baby chickens all reportedly died in the fire.

Mrs. Haggerman, reports indicate, attempted to call the Versailles fire department but was forced to leave the house because of intense heat.

Firefighters were later notified by Trooper Harold Hall, who saw the fire. When firemen arrived, however, the fire was so far advanced the residence could not be saved.

After spending a short time with Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brade, west of Versailles, the Haggerman family moved into a small home owned by Orville Hudson, reports indicate.

Hanoi Remains Silent On Latest Peace Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moscow's initial response to President Johnson's curb on the bombing of North Vietnam was cautiously negative today while Hanoi greeted with official silence the sudden new bid to de-escalate the war and get peace talks going.

Officials here, however, said President Johnson was fully prepared to wait what they called a "reasonable time" before considering a resumption of the bombing which he ordered halted Sunday over most of North Vietnam.

Local Boy Is Object Of Search

Bulletin

Just at press time searchers at the old Menefee quarry called through the Sheriff's office for an ambulance and the Pettis County Coroner on the belief that divers had located a body, possibly that of Steven Smith, 901 South Monteuau, missing since Saturday night.

Attempts to locate Steven Smith, 14, who disappeared during an alleged fight in the vicinity of an old quarry northwest of Sedalia Saturday night are continuing.

In the latest effort to locate the missing boy, Sheriff Emmett Fairfax has organized a diving team to send to the quarry to investigate reports that the boy had fallen, or had jumped, into the quarry.

Fairfax said he was notified just before midnight Saturday that there had been a fight at the quarry, known as the old Menefee quarry, and that Smith was missing. Fairfax sent a car to the scene but the people reported involved in the fight had left the area.

During the day Sunday, and on Monday morning, Fairfax questioned seven people and determined there had been a fight, climaxing a party being held on the banks of the quarry.

Fairfax said one of the boys questioned told him Smith had been involved in the fight, and that when last seen had jumped or had fallen into the quarry, from a high bank on the north side of the quarry, and was last seen swimming toward the other side.

Negative Reaction To New Peace Call

LONDON (AP) — Britain began sounding out the Soviet Union today on President Johnson's new call for a peace conference on Vietnam but the first reaction from Moscow appeared negative.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart conferred with Soviet Ambassador Mikhail N. Smirnovsky on the President's initiative.

Later Stewart told the House of Commons: "We are ready as always to cooperate with the Soviet government in many measures which, in our judgment, could advance the prospects of a just and lasting settlement."

There was no report on Stewart's talk with Smirnovsky, but a dispatch of the Soviet news agency Tass called Johnson's overture for peace a maneuver that ignores North Vietnam's demand for an unconditional halt to bombing raids.

Johnson called a halt to attacks on all of North Vietnam except for areas around the demilitarized zone.

The President's actions on Vietnam were welcomed across Europe and by some U.S. allies in Asia.

Diplomats in London expressed a belief Hanoi will reject Johnson's peace offer because of his companion announcement not to run for reelection. They said Johnson's decision may tempt the Vietnamese Communists—with Red Chinese encouragement—to

President Johnson

Kennedy Leading Contender

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., emerges as the leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination after President Johnson's world-resounding announcement that he will not seek renomination.

The mathematics of politics ordinarily would assure Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., the uncaring challenger of the President's expected bid for a second elective term, top place among the contender for the vacated prize.

But in the emotional year of 1968, the men, the money and the myth of Camelot are all on Kennedy's side.

McCarthy will get a satisfying boost by winning Wisconsin's presidential primary Tuesday after the President's default. But once the balloting is over, some Wisconsin leaders of the Johnson and McCarthy organizations may swing quickly to Kennedy.

The Minnesota senator is spending all that comes in on winning primaries while Kennedy's unlimited financial resources are pointed at the selection of delegates at state conventions, where the nomination demonstrated is won or lost.

McCarthy and Kennedy will face their first showdown at the ballot box on May 7 in Indiana, where the voters are reputed to be considerably more conservative than either.

Both McCarthy and Kennedy have focused their campaign attacks on Johnson's Vietnam policies. Johnson's announcement that he is "substantially reducing" the current level of hostilities on a unilateral basis is exactly what both have called for.

They and other doves who have opposed the President's policies vigorously in the Senate could only applaud the President's decision to eliminate 90 per cent of the air attacks on North Vietnam.

Will Not Change Mind On Candidacy Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says his bombshell announcement that "I shall not seek and I will not accept" nomination for another term is "completely irrevocable."

Johnson voiced his emotion-packed pronouncement in a television-radio address to the nation Sunday night. Then he met with newsmen in the White House living quarters and sought to dispel any suspicion that he might change his mind or succumb to a draft.

To do this, he used the phrase "completely irrevocable."

Left unanswered was the question of whether Johnson might try to influence the choice of his successor as Democratic standard-bearer. But his words, taken at face value, suggested a hands-off attitude.

Also up in the air were the plans of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who might join Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota in the 1968 Democratic sweepstakes.

A man of many surprises, Johnson's announcement was his most stunning move in a 37-year career in politics. No president eligible to succeed himself has spurned a fight for the office since Harry S. Truman bowed out during the controversial Korean War 20 years ago.

Johnson attributed his decision—which aides said was a year in the making—to controversies rending the nation at this time, including the Vietnam war.

"There is division in the American house now," he said in solemn tones. "There is divisiveness among us all tonight." Then, after appealing to all Americans "to guard against divisiveness and all its ugly consequences," he came to the key passages:

"... I have concluded that I should not permit the presidency to become involved in the partisan divisions that are developing in this political year."

Seven Ballots Await Voters

Sedalia's will have seven different ballots to mark in the election Tuesday, April 2.

The polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. Ballots may be cast at the various polling places shown on the above city map.

Heading the list of ballots will be the city general election ballot for city officials.

In addition, voters will have ballots for the library tax levy increase of one mill, the Town & Country industrial general obligation bond issue of $1,050,000, the Pettis County School Board election, the Sedalia District 200 School Board election, the Sedalia District 200 school tax levy, and a ballot for election of a trustee for the Pettis-Benton County Junior College district.

Voters in Pettis County, outside of Sedalia, may cast their ballots in the County

School Board election and the Junior College trustee election in the same place they would in a routine school election.

Voters in Benton County may cast their ballots in the Junior College Trustee election at the same place they would vote in a regular school election.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I went to the movies the other night with another couple. The female star in the film was a well-known actress who is famous for her spectacular measurements.

All during the movie my husband and the other fellow kept making remarks which I considered to be in poor taste. After the movie we went for pizza and the boys kept it up — only they began to make comparisons. The other girl got so upset she began to cry. I was just plain furious.

When we got home I told my husband he had hurt my feelings. He said he didn't mean to, but anyone with eyes could see that he had been cheated. I told him if a big bosom was THAT important he should have had his tape measure along when he went looking for a wife.

Should I lock him out of the bedroom for a week or so? We have been married for only two years and I don't want to make any serious mistakes. But I'd like to teach him a lesson. — NOT BUXOM JUST AMPLE

Dear Ample: A wife who locks her husband out of the bedroom gives him a peachy excuse to try other doors. Don't do it.

You and your friend should have laughed off the adolescent comments. Nothing is so disarming as laughter. Any idiot knows it takes more than spectacular measurements to make a marriage work. The best evidence is Hollywood. Check the marital records of most of those over-endowed dolls and you'll see what I mean.

Dear Ann Landers: I cried when I read the letter from the woman who saved coupons for years and bought the bride and groom a complete set of silver only to have the snippy bride dump the gift — chest and all, right in her living room — because she learned it had been purchased with coupons and not cash.

Eighteen years ago I was an assistant dietician in a hospital. When I announced my engagement, the kitchen help went to the supervisor and said they wanted to buy me the finest toaster money could buy. They asked that the price of the toaster be deducted from their paychecks weekly, until the day of my wedding. The supervisor suggested that they save coupons because she knew that the very finest toaster could be obtained in that manner. They took her advice.

Two years ago my children saved their money to buy me a new toaster for Mother's Day. When I explained the significance of the old toaster they said, "No wonder it has been kept so shiny and bright through the years. They must have loved you a great deal — and you must have loved them, too."

Can money buy that, Ann? — NEWARK MEMORIES

Dear Newark: What a heart-warming letter! I hope that little snip who behaved so boorishly sees your response and learns from it. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: My son has a 13-year-old daughter who is quite mature for her age, but still she is only 13. Her mother allows her to accept Friday and Saturday night sitting jobs in the apartment building. Last night she had full charge of three youngsters. Please tell me what you think about this. — CONCERNED

Dear Concerned: It is up to the girl's mother to decide whether or not she is capable of handling the responsibility. Some 13-year-olds are extremely reliable, others at 13 need someone to sit with them. — M.Y.O.B., Granny.

Travelogue Film Will Be Shown

Dennis Cooper

"Inside Passage and Aleutian Islands" is the subject of a travelogue film to be shown and narrated by the producer, Dennis Cooper, in the final film of the travel and adventure series sponsored by the Sedalia Rotary Club. The showing will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Smith-Cotton High School auditorium.

The film concerns a trip taken by Cooper and his brother, Don, up the Inside Passage to Alaska in a small cabin cruiser. The audience is given an opportunity to explore with them the fjords, glaciers, cataracts and towering walls of rock. The little boat heads onto the open sea to make visits nad then to the Aleutian and Pribilof Islands to see the prized fur seal.

Cooper was born in Spokane, Wash., and learned the great outdoors from the lumber camps owned by his father, Sen. George R. Cooper. He was graduated in engineering and it looked for a while like he would abandon his woods career for one in engineering, but he yielded to the call and returned to the mountains of Western Montana, where with his brother, Don, he operated a logging and sawmill for several years. Always interested in photography, Cooper finally decided to photograph his trees instead of saw them. He traded his chain saw for a camera and his logs for film, and together with brother Don, entered the fascinating world of travelogue photography. Their films, covering their adventures and misadventures from the Arctic to the Tropics, have been received with gratifying enthusiasm by audiences throughout the nation.

Highlights of LBJ Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are highlights of President Johnson's address to the nation Sunday night:

With America's sons in the fields far away, with America's future under challenge right here at home, with our hopes and the world's hopes for peace in the balance every day, I do not believe that I should devote an hour or a day of my time to any personal partisan causes or to any duties other than the awesome duties of this office.

I shall not seek and will not accept the nomination of my party for another term as your President.

Tonight, in the hope that this action will lead to early talks, I am taking a first step to de-escalate the conflict. We are reducing—substantially reducing—the present level of hostilities. And we are doing so unilaterally, and at once.

Tonight, I have ordered our aircraft and our naval vessels to make no attacks on North Vietnam, except in the area north of the Demilitarized Zone where the continued enemy buildup directly threatens allied forward positions and where the movements of their troops and supplies are clearly related to that threat.

Even this very limited bombing of the north could come to an early end—if our restraint is matched by restraint in Hanoi.

But I cannot in good conscience stop all bombing so long as to do so would immediately and directly endanger the lives of our men and our allies.

Tonight, I call upon the United Kingdom and I call upon the Soviet Union—as co-chairmen of the Geneva Conference, and as permanent members of the United Nations Security Council—to do all they can to move from the unilateral act of decalation that I have just announced toward genuine peace in Southeast Asia.

I call upon President Ho Chi Minh to respond positively, and favorably, to this new step toward peace.

But if peace does not come now through negotiations, it will come when Hanoi understands that our common resolve is unshakable, and our common strength is invincible.

The United States will never accept a fake solution to this long and arduous struggle and call it peace.

I cannot promise that the initiative I have announced tonight will be completely successful in achieving peace any more than the more than 30 others we have undertaken and agreed to in recent years.

Tonight I have offered the first in what I hope will be a series of mutual moves toward peace.

I pray that it will not be rejected by the leaders of North Vietnam. I pray that they will accept it as a means by which the sacrifices of their own people may be ended.

And I ask your help and your support, my fellow citizens, for this effort to reach across the battlefield toward an early peace.

Tonight we face the sharpest financial threat in the post war era—A threat to the dollar's role as the keystone of international trade and finance in the world.

One thing is unmistakably clear, however: our deficit just must be reduced. Failure to act could bring on conditions that would strike hardest at those people that all of us are trying so hard to help.

Political Thunderbolt From LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's stunning decision to leave the White House at the end of his term is the biggest thunderbolt to flash from the political skies in a stormy year of astounding surprises.

With the primary season barely begun and only a handful of convention delegates chosen, three major candidates have quit the battle and a fourth, who was not expected to run at all, now is campaigning hard for the Democratic nomination.

Michigan Gov. George Romney was the first to confound the experts when he withdrew from the Republican nomination fight Feb. 28, just 12 days before the New Hampshire primary.

Facing certain defeat in his contest with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Romney

Vacationing Becomes A Year-Round Enterprise

In Shakespeare's time games were played with inflated pig bladders, and before that English athletes enjoyed a sport in which they kicked human skulls around a field. The skulls generally belonged to extinct Danes.

SLIPPED DISC

It doesn't sound like anything very serious. Just a little something which slid out of place a little bit. It shouldn't hurt anything, and it'll probably slip back into place the next time the urge strikes it.

But the ache and pains which accompany the slipped disc, the long and drawn-out periods of agony which intensify, and the too-often crippling effects of the slipped disc belie the statement that it 'isn't anything serious'.

The disc is one of the soft cushion-like segments which separates the vertebra of the spine. It serves as a ball bearing and shock absorber for the vertebra. When a disc slips, something else has to give, and nerve pressure in the affected area is the immediate result.

Chiropractors are students of the spine and the body's nervous system, make simple, gentle adjustments to correct the disorder and to restore normal function to the nerve system and to the body. With the disorder removed, nature cures.

The paralyzing effects of the slipped disc respond quite naturally to competent chiropractic adjustments.

GOOD FARMING with Lloyd Lewellen

Pettis County
Farm Management Agent

Recently some interesting farm figures came across my desk concerning Pettis County. Beef cow numbers increased 70 per cent from 1958 to 1967. Beef cattle numbers will increase 4,000 head in 1968 or the number in 1967. Milk cows numbers will decrease 300 head. Hogs will increase 6,000 head this year in Pettis County.

Corn harvested for grain in Pettis County in 1966 was 48,000 acres at the average yield of 51.9. In 1967 the acreage increased to 50,000 acres at 63.4 bushels per acre.

Soybeans harvested for grain in 1966 averaged 24.9 bushels on 43,000 acres. In 1967 the average yield was 21.0 bushels on 47,000 acres.

Grain sorghum harvested for grain yielded 53.4 bushels on 8,200 acres in 1966. In 1967 the acres moved up to 14,500 acres at 59.0 bushels per acre.

Weeds
One pigweed every 3 feet of corn row can cut yield 7½ bushel per acre. Roods have been found to spread 6 feet from plant and go 8 feet deep.

Cocklebur roots may go 14 feet out and 10 feet deep. One cocklebur plant can take the plant nutrients and water from a volume of soil 3 times as wide and 25 per cent deeper than a corn plant.

Weed control in corn is a must if the crop is to be reasonably profitable.

Chick Weed and Henbit
A low volatility, 2, 4, 5-T containing Silvex has been giving good control of chick weed, henbit and other winter annuals in lawns. While generally recommended from October 1 to April 1, it can be applied later in the spring but more care needs to be taken to avoid drift. Applying with a sprinkling can help to avoid drift. Dosage can also be cut down from 2 tablespoons per gallon to 1 tablespoon or less in 2 gallons of water.

Mole Control
Use two-thirds cup 15 per cent dieldrin emulsifiable concentrate in 2 gallons of water and apply this amount of mixture to 1,000 square feet of lawn, or apply 12 ounces 10 per cent dieldrin granules per 1,000 square feet of lawn. Water the lawn heavily immediately after application. Keep children and pets off freshly treated lawns for 48 hours.

One good application should control soil insects for 3 to 5 years. During this effective period moles will be kept largely under control. Killing the insects upon which the moles feed forces them to move to other areas.

File it and Find it
As record keeping becomes more important on farms, a host of farmers have asked where they can get help in setting up a farm file system.

Every farm business has need for some type of filing system that will enable the family to "file and find" their business and personal transactions. This is an important part of a farm business center.

The County University Extension Center has available upon request a suggested filing system for farm and home. This system is known as "File it and Find it". The system makes use of a numbering system with appropriate headings. Each family can select those they need. As the need arises, the system can be expanded.

"Mental" Wages
Getting and keeping good farm workers is becoming a major problem on many commercial farms. Rising cash wages to farm employees means rising total cost and a squeeze on profits if output or productivity is not increased. Cash wages may not be enough to keep good workers. They also need "mental" wages, which are simply good employer-employee relations which promote pride in work, good attitudes, respect and loyalty.

What can employers do to improve their mental wage payments? Each employee is different, but there are some basic needs of individuals to consider.

Employees need to feel that their jobs are important and that they are not just hired hands to their employers. The popular image of the hired farm worker is less than desirable and farm employers need to do everything they can to raise the status and dignity of their workers.

Farm employees, not unlike other people, want to belong, or be a part of, a successful team. Perhaps using the word "We" more often can let farm workers know that they are essential to the farm business operation. Farm employees and their families also need to belong to the community and should be encouraged to participate in community activities.

Generally, I think employees want some responsibilities. Since each worker has some capacity for accepting responsibilities, the employer should learn each worker's potential. Then, when he is ready to accept more responsibility, give him the chance to assume it.

Most employees want to advance. Opportunities should be provided for self-improvement through training and education. Employers can invite or enroll some employees in Extension meetings, machinery dealer schools, and short courses. Perhaps, suitable rewards can be provided to stimulate self-improvement for workers.

Finally, employees respond to good supervision. Planning the job, explaining how it is to be done, and seeing that the job is carried out are part of the supervisor's responsibilities. Carefully planned routines, clear explanations, and pleasant but business-like supervision by employers has a high pay-off in increased productivity.

Now, in order to keep good farm workers, many operators

Rocky Has No Comments

NEW YORK (AP) — A top-ranking aide to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said Sunday night, "The governor has no immediate comment" on President Johnson's announcement that he will not seek re-election in November.

He stressed the word "immediate." The source would not go so far as to say that Rockefeller may be reassessing the position he stated on March 21 when he said, "I have decided to reiterate unequivocally that I am not a candidate . . . for the presidency of the United States."

In spite of this disavowal, Rockefeller remains a factor in the contest for the GOP nomination for president. Draft-Rockefeller groups have not disbanded in the states where they organized before he stated his position. It appeared likely that they would redouble their efforts on his behalf in the wake of Johnson's announcement.

GOP leaders expressed the opinion that, as one put it, "The favorite sons all over the country will be rethinking their positions now."

These favorite sons included Govs. Ronald Reagan of California, James Rhodes of Ohio, Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, and possibly Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois.

"Nobody knows yet who we're going to be battling in November," a Republican professional said. "I don't think it will be (Vice President Hubert) Humphrey. Bobby (Kennedy) would eat him for breakfast."

Richard M. Nixon is the acknowledged front-runner for the Republican nomination.

He said Sunday, "Don't downgrade Vice President Humphrey." But Nixon said he wanted to "study the text of the President's remarks before I comment on them."

Rockefeller, potentially, is a strong challenger to Nixon for the nomination. He has demonstrated in New York state—where the Republicans are the minority party, as they are nationally—that he can pull votes from Democrats and independents. He is serving his third term as governor.

Program For The Retarded Is Planned

Pettis County 4-H Junior Leaders are in the final planning for providing a one week summer program for mentally retarded school children.

At a meeting March 26, the planning committee discussed plans with Mrs. Elmer DeWitt, a teacher at the school.

Representing the Junior Leaders were: Mrs. Nolen Gieschen, Richard Mewes and Dale Wilson.

The Junior Leaders plan to have a program in grooming and health for all enrolled. They will have a special program for both girls and boys. The girls will have a chance to learn about cooking and sewing. For the boys will be woodworking and animal projects. The program will conclude with a picnic and tour to a farm. This will give the children a chance to see and touch live animals and learn something about the animals.

The program is scheduled to begin June 3 and end June 7.

Rules Loyalty Oath Is Unconstitutional

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The state attorney general's office has ruled the Oklahoma loyalty oath unconstitutional. It had been required of all state employees including teachers and college professors.

The opinion was requested by the University of Oklahoma. A graduate instructor there—Vincent Maefsky—was dismissed last year because he refused to sign the oath.

The opinion cited recent U.S. Supreme Court rulings holding similar oaths in Maryland, New York and Arizona unconstitutional.

will need to improve cash wages, fringe benefits, and working conditions. The thing about improving "mental" wages is that they usually do not increase cash costs and that productivity is almost certain to increase.

How to Become Extinct

A fictitious story that illustrates a moral attitude is called a parable. The following tale has such a typical application to trends in our country that it lends itself to repetition. The Brunswick, Missouri paper picked it up from the Thief River (Minn.) Times so we are passing it along to our readers:

"Once upon a time there were two men who lived on farms across the road from each other. One of these men labored from early to late to plant and tend his crops, care for his livestock, improve his buildings and repair his machinery. His wife took part-time employment in the nearby town to supplement the family income and provide for the education of their children.

"The other man preferred to rise at his convenience, spent many of his days in the nearby town playing cards, talking on the street corner or relaxing in an air-conditioned bar. His crops — seeded later than his neighbor's — were infested with weeds. He had no livestock, for they were too much work and his buildings were in too poor repair to keep them. His wife joined him in town or went on her own way, letting the housework slide and neglecting her children.

"By virtue of his effort, enterprise and initiative, the first man harvested a good crop, his livestock and their products brought top prices and his farmstead had a neat, orderly appearance. Because of his indolence and carelessness, the second man harvested only a little crop and his buildings deteriorated.

"Then along came a being called Equalizer. He looked upon the second man and said, 'Your children are undernourished and underclothed, I will provide you with sustenance for yourself and for them. Your are poverty-stricken because you have little income; I will give you more money. Your house is in poor condition; I will build you a new one.'

"He looked upon the first man and said, 'You have more income than you require to provide your family with necessities; I will take the remainder from you. Your land and buildings and machinery are of great value; I will exact payment in relation to their value. Your production has created surpluses; next year I shall restrict the acreage you may plant. I shall take much of what you have and give it to your neighbor who is less fortunate than you.'

"Other neighbors heard what the being called Equalizer had to say and they reasoned thus: 'Why should we labor when the returns of our labor are taken from us? Why should we not do as we please, forsaking our labors, when the being called Equalizer will care for our wants and educate our children? Let us then pursue the course of leisure and pleasure.'

"Now the country in which this parable took place was called the United States of America and the being called Equalizer was the government. And the people grew lazy and dependent upon the Equalizer, and he lost his power to sustain them and they disappeared from the face of the earth."

Nixon Seeks Big Wisconsin Protest Vote Against LBJ

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (NEA)

At an ordinary dinner party here recently, all 12 of those present turned out to be Republicans. An informal poll disclosed that four intended to cross over and vote for Sen. Eugene McCarthy in Wisconsin's April 2 primary.

Nobody can have any real idea how much of this cross-over voting there will be, but it is a principal threat to Richard M. Nixon's hope of rolling up an impressively high total against minimum opposition—to build on his huge result in New Hampshire.

The potential cross-over Republicans at the dinner party are interested, of course, in maximizing their protest against President Johnson. McCarthy is a blank to them aside from his well-known dovish Vietnam views. They simply know a good showing for him would hurt the Democrats.

Countless other Republicans may decide that a big Nixon vote is the best protest. Again, though there is no way to gauge it, a good many might choose just to vote a "No" against all candidates, as is possible now on Wisconsin's revised ballot.

But the cross-over prospect, along with the likelihood of a considerable GOP stay-at-home vote, unsettles Nixon managers who want to run up a score.

They say they would like to see him get at least 400,000 votes, as compared to the 339,000 he received in 1960, when he ran unopposed while the late John F. Kennedy was beating Vice President Humphrey. They would also like Nixon to collect 35 per cent or more of the total two-party vote. He got 28 per cent in 1960.

Above all, they would like him to "run second," ahead of whichever Democratic candidate is beaten out for the first place on the Democratic side. It hurt in 1960 that Nixon was listed as "third" behind Kennedy and Humphrey.

His outlook on this matter may have been improved lately by the poll indications that Democrats may scratch out a sizable write-in vote, perhaps 10 to 20 per cent, for their newest national presidential entry, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York.

In the closing days, Nixon himself is trying, as he did in New Hampshire after George Romney's withdrawal, to drum up a big vote to "show the country" that an irrepressible tide is moving.

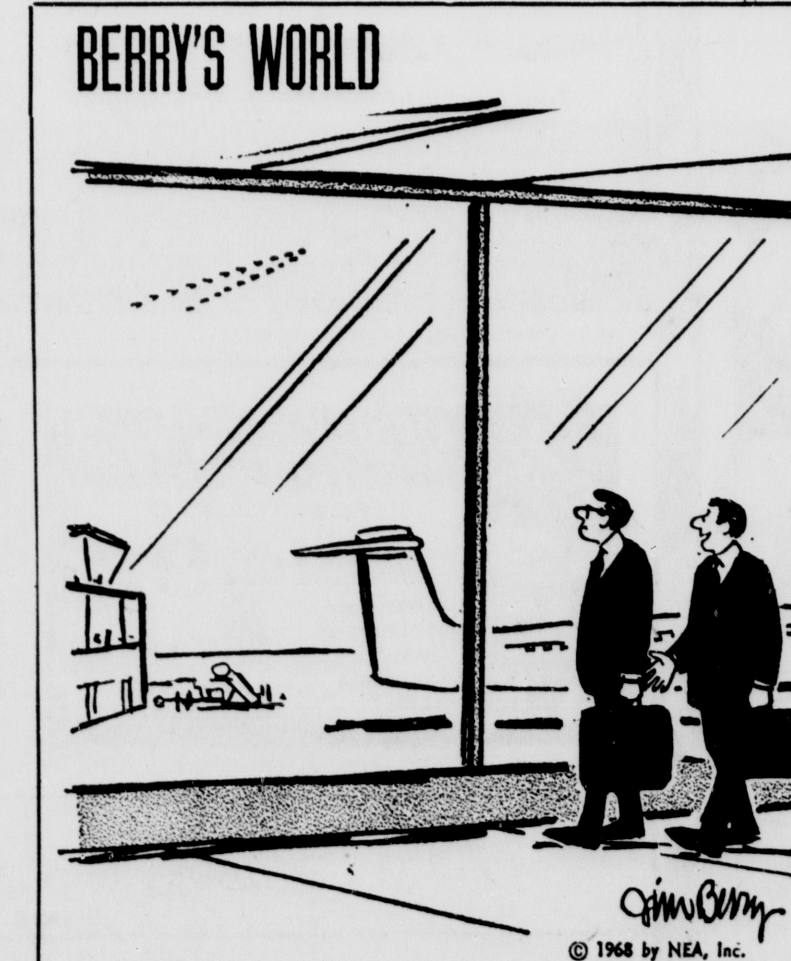

He may be aided materially by the efforts of his telephone vote-canvass teams which have talked to more than 300,000 Wisconsin voters since late February, identifying potential Nixon backers who are now being tapped again and urged or helped to get to the polls.

Yet, flushed with what today he sees as impending nomination victory since Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's "won't run" statement, Nixon tends to work somewhat at cross-purposes with his big-vote objective.

His first campaigning days here after that statement were a little like the triumphal tour of the generous-hearted king who sees the internal struggle ended and wants only to heal wounds. If the king has won, he hardly needs new troops.

Nixon also may suffer a little slicing-off in his own party, mostly from Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, whose name is on the ballot because he is California's favorite son.

The rule-of-thumb measure on Reagan's vote is "10 to 15 per cent." But he has some hot followers in Wisconsin, and any last-minute publicity splurge for him might enlarge his primary total.

Jim: "We haven't spent much time discussing squeezes lately."

Oswald: "No, we haven't. Maybe we should remedy that lack right now."

Jim: "Here's a good example. The six no-trump contract is eminently sound since in his hand and dummy's South has four spades, two hearts, three diamonds and three clubs in top cards. A rubber bridge player wouldn't worry much about an over-trick because he would be satisfied with scoring 190 below the line plus 500 for the rubber and 750 for the slam, but he might just as well go after the over-trick as a matter of technique."

Oswald: "The basic play for the over-trick is to see if clubs break. If each opponent holds three clubs, South's fourth club becomes the 13th trick. If not, there must be some squeeze possibility since either dummy's fourth diamond or South's own third heart becomes a potential squeeze card."

Jim: "That is the base of all squeezes. You can't make all the tricks without exerting pressure. You exert the pressure and the squeeze operates."

Oswald: "This hand is set up as a simple one-way squeeze against East. South wins the heart opening and runs off four spade tricks. He throws a small heart from dummy. West lets a heart go also, as does East. Then South leads a second heart to his hand and East is squeezed. He has to throw away a club or a diamond and either discard gives South his 13th trick."

Jim: "This hand represents a three-suit squeeze situation. Take West's four of hearts and trade it for East's five of diamonds. Now the four spade leads and two heart leads won't bother East because he could only stop clubs anyway. West won't be bothered up to that point, but South will squeeze West when he leads out dummy's three top clubs. West will be forced to throw a diamond or his last heart. Either discard will give South the 13th trick."

State Capitol News

Dispute Circles Income Available To State
JEFFERSON CITY — Legislative leaders in both the House and Senate would like to find a "windfall" in state revenue which would insure passage of a capital improvements bill and leave additional reserves to cover contingencies.

But a windfall has not been found, although revenue collections may exceed predictions by a small margin. State Director of Revenue, Thomas A. David, reported last week that collections are running ahead of estimates on the basis of last March and April.

He explained, however, that this was due largely to improved collection procedures and not to additional sources of revenue.

A St. Louis newspaper last week labeled this more rapid collection revenue as a windfall to the state which would point to a second session call to consider the capital improvements bill which failed in a recent special session.

David said he felt the story misinterpreted what he intended. Instead of any windfall being available to the state, he indicated that collection procedures have been improved since last year and that available revenue is coming in at a faster rate.

David further noted that additional income may become available to the state if sales increase statewide over last year at a greater rate than anticipated, and if the increase in income tax revenue is greater than normal growth expectations.

Rep. E. J. (Lucky) Cantrell (D-St. Louis County), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee said last week that, based on a "recap" of anticipated revenues including March collections, which are received from the Department of Revenue, that the state should have at least $10 million more than either the House or Senate appropriations committees was able to forecast before the last special session ended.

Cantrell explained that February and early March collections were low for Missouri and other states and indicated that only a normal growth year could be expected during the special session.

Revised figures, which became available after the March 15 end of the special session showed that the state would receive at least $10 million and possibly more, than predicted, Cantrell said.

This increase, he said, would leave the state with at least $10 million in reserves, whereas, the estimates at the end of the first special session were that only $3 million in reserves would have been available if the capital improvements measure had been passed.

In light of these new figures, Cantrell feels that another special session will be called about May 1 to reconsider capital improvements. Such a session would not last more than 10 days, he felt.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

There Are Many Kinds Of Breast Cancers

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — How many kinds of breast cancer are there? What is the medullary kind?

A — Scirrhous breast cancer primarily involves the connective tissue; adenomatous, the glandular tissue; medullary, the deep central portion; and Paget's disease, the nipples. A more useful classification is type A (fast-growing tumors in women under 40) and type B (slow-growing tumors in women over 40). These ages are relative, not absolute—type A is occasionally seen in women who are over 40.

Q — How does a woman get breast cancer? What are the symptoms? Could a teen-ager get it?

A — The cause and manner of getting a breast cancer is unknown. A tumor that can be felt with the flat of the hand (not just the finger tips) is the only early symptom. Other means of early detection include scanning after giving a woman a radioisotope, scanning by means of infrared photography for areas of increased body heat and X ray (mammography).

Cancer of the breast in girls who are under 15 is practically never seen and is very rare in women under 25.

Q — How can I bring down the swelling in my arm caused by a blockage of the lymphatics following a radical breast removal for cancer?

A — This is a common aftermath of radical mastectomy. In the treatment it is necessary first to clear up any wound infection that may be present. An elastic bandage helps to keep the swelling down but does not cure the condition. The most important part of the treatment is the use of certain exercises described in detail in the pamphlet, "Help Yourself to Recovery." It is available from the American Cancer Society, 219 East 42d St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Q — My doctor says my bladder doesn't empty completely when I void. Is this common? Could a bladder or kidney infection cause stomach distress? What causes polyps of the bladder? Should a person with bladder trouble increase his intake of fluids?

A — Failure to empty the bladder completely is common in persons who are over 60 (more so in men than in women). A bladder or kidney infection may cause vague distress in the abdomen and pelvis and, since it may be associated with nausea, it is often attributed to the stomach. The cause of polyps is not known. Taking a large amount of fluids helps to flush out the bladder and kidneys and prevent a highly acid, irritating urine.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH: Sounds From the Past—When it comes to music indigenous to St. Louis, we suppose most St. Louisans would start and end with the "St. Louis Blues." A few might know of "Frankie and Johnny." Not so many would know that ragtime, now enjoying renewed popularity, spread out from the 1904 World's Fair, though it originated mostly in Sedalia. And how many residents ever heard of "Stackolee," one of the finest folk songs to originate here? We make these observations in congratulating the St. Louis American on both its fortieth anniversary and its decision to celebrate by sponsoring a summer-long festival of St. Louis music.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Sequel to 6,000 Dead Sheep

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The incident of the 6,000 dead sheep in western Utah has raised the ominous possibility that people, too, may be in danger from chemical and germ warfare experiments.

This column has learned, for example, that the veterinarians who examined the dead sheep have complained of strange symptoms themselves. The Basque shepherd who had been tending the ill-fated flock also suffered from nausea, headaches, dizziness and diarrhea.

The sheep had been grazing near the Army's Dugway Proving Grounds, where the army has been testing nerve gas. The suspicion is that the sheep got a whiff of the deadly gas, which somehow seeped out of the test area.

This has caused an urgent reappraisal of the safeguards at other chemical and biological warfare centers. For it is known that the Army is experimenting with paralyzing, odorless gases and deadly mutant microbes in more populated places than the sagebrush country of eastern Utah.

Research in chemical or germ warfare is going on at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal near Denver; Pine Bluff Arsenal, 40 miles from Little Rock, Ark.; Fort Dietrich, outside Frederick, Md., 40 miles from the nation's capital; Edgewood Arsenal, Md.; Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.; and a civilian laboratory at Newport, Ind. In addition, 50 research contracts have been granted to various universities.

There are no known antidotes for some of the gases and germs that have been developed. At the Pine Bluff laboratories, for example, bacterial strains have been developed that could cause a national disaster.

In the case of the sheep, the Agriculture Department sent two veterinarians from the Utah State Agricultural College, Dr. Kent Van Kampen and Dr. Lynn James, to determine the cause of the mysterious deaths. They performed several autopsies which indicated the sheep had died from disorders of the central nervous system.

—People Instead of Sheep?—

Not long afterward, both veterinarians came down with the same symptoms that had afflicted the shepherd. This startling development was immediately hushed up by the federal officials in charge of the investigation. Dr. E. E. Solomon, the Agriculture Department's director of animal health, spoke on the phone to his chief veterinarian in Utah, Dr. Jordan Rasmussen, who instructed Drs. Van Kampen and James to keep their symptoms to themselves.

Meanwhile, Brig. Gen. William W. Stone of the Army Materiel Command acknowledged to the Utah congressional delegation that the death of the sheep "right on our doorstep and probably involving a chemical similar to materials we have been testing... (makes us) highly suspect."

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Election of officers of the Sedalia Rotary club resulted in selection of the following: President, Frank W. Bryant; Vice-President, Lawrence Barnett; Secretary, Fred Brink; Treasurer, Henry Harris; Sergeant-at-arms, Louis Bahrenburg; Director, Nolan Bricken. The Rev. L. W. Leasure was elected director to substitute for L. L. Studer who now is in Old Mexico.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Carl P. Schuchardt, Kansas City, Kan., was in Sedalia and through Ira E. Melton, realtor, closed a deal whereby he purchased from Roy Petty, the Missouri Cities Memorial Park Corporation and becomes owner of 40 acres of the Petty farm near High Point. The company will begin at once to establish a Memorial Park Cemetery.

NINETY YEARS AGO

Mr. A. J. Collier of Kentucky, the man who came to Missouri with a requisition for a horse thief, whom he found in Holt County, is lying very sick at the jail residence in Sedalia. The prisoner is in the jail, and ain't caring much whether his captor gets well or not.

The Women's Vote

According to Ted Sorensen, former Kennedy adviser, in a current magazine article, "American women do not turn out to vote the way American men do."

He also calls the female vote a myth. The Sorensen article says: "It is an ironic fact that according to the surveys certain groups of voters in this country turn out to cast ballots in great numbers despite lack of interest and information while young mothers, a high proportion of whom are actually registered and have a real responsibility and involvement, stay home on election day."

Fortunately, the League of Women Voters as well as campaign workers are providing baby sitters and cars to get the young mothers to the voting booths.

The Sorensen study also points out that more women are for peace candidates than men, and that they are not in favor of the most photogenic model.

The American women won the right to vote in 1920 on such slogans as equal rights, better government, honesty in politics, etc. What good are the promises if they stay home on election? We are at the crossroads in this election year. The people must decide, and more than half of the people eligible to vote are women. They have a chance to express their preference on the ballot, which is secret. Why be a myth?

Claims LBJ Ignored Most Warning Signs

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Plenty of warnings have been sounded in the last six years about "the combustible mixture of commitments abroad along with the mushrooming balance of payments and budgetary deficits at home," Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said Sunday.

Little, if any attention was paid to the warnings by the executive branch of government, Symington told 6,000 persons at the world conference of the Reorganized Latter Day Saint Church.

The senator urged support of a Senate resolution designed to restore to Congress "responsibility for decisions affecting the vital interests of our nation."

W. Wallace Smith, president of the church, in his opening sermon to the biennial conference, approved the principle of fair housing. He also endorsed a proposal to establish a college campus in Independence.

The conference will run through next Sunday.

The World Today

'Gag Rule' May Have Some Good

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "gag rule" which the House of Representatives often invokes on the consideration of legislation is regularly denounced by opponents as an unconscionable handicap to congressional discussion and action.

But the Senate, which has no such rule, has just spent a week demonstrating that there may be a lot to be said for the procedure.

The device, known more formally as a closed rule, amounts to this: The House Rules Committee—with the approval of a majority of the membership at large—can decree that the House vote yes or no on a measure before it, without any opportunity to alter it by offering amendments on the floor.

The Senate received from the House a simple bill to postpone reductions in the excise taxes on automobiles and telephone service and speed up corporate tax collections.

It is part—the lesser part—of President Johnson's program to raise some $12 billion extra revenue to reduce the big budget deficits now impending. The major, and far more controversial part, is an income tax increase which neither chamber has approved.

The Senate, true to its tradition of unlimited debate and amendment, went to work with a will on the House-passed measure. By the time it wearily quit for the weekend Friday it had debated 23 amendments—almost none of which related directly to the basic bill—and adopted 11. Still to be taken up were an undetermined number, including one block-buster—an effort to graft onto the bill an income-tax increase accompanied by a whopping cut in spending.

Meanwhile time ran out on the excise tax extension. As of today, by existing law, the rate on automobiles drops five percentage points and on telephone service, seven.

If the controversy does not drag on too long, the practical effect may not be too severe—automobile manufacturers and telephone companies were reported planning to continue paying the taxes, since the basic extension bill is not in dispute and would be retroactive to April 1 when passed.

Even so, legal questions may arise, especially if, for example, many telephone bills go out to customers while the issue is still at least technically unsettled. The House invariably brings up tax bills under closed rules and with debate time limits set in advance, averting the possibility of such tieups.

The argument against the closed rule is obvious: A House majority controlling the Rules Committee could jam prefabricated legislation through.

It could present a conscientious member with an unhappy choice—voting for a bill whose general purpose he approves but which contains some elements he considers unwise, or voting against it and probably killing for a session any chance of dealing with a pressing problem.

Arguments for the closed rule are, first, that writing legislation on the floor is bad business. The committees of Congress are supposed to give expert consideration to legislation, weigh alternatives, take testimony and bring to the floor the version they think best on balance.

All their work could be disrupted by a member's offering of an irresponsible, but politically attractive amendment. The closed rule also can protect a member against pressure from some special interest in his district, an especially important consideration in tax legislation.

THIRD WARD VOTERS

We are wondering why Jerry Jones, who lives in the 4th Ward is now spending all his time in the 3rd Ward trying to tell the people what to do and who to vote for. There is one thing the people in the 3rd Ward are surely aware of. That is, Jerry Jones quit in the middle of his term as councilman and moved out leaving the 3rd Ward with only one councilman. Bob Wells was under the impression he was running against Carl Landis. If Jerry Jones wanted to run against Bob Wells he should move back in the 3rd Ward and Wells states he would welcome the opportunity to run against Jerry Jones.

There are still 4 councilmen who were there at the time cablevision was presented, the Records Show. They are still there and they voted for cablevision when it was presented. Why hasn't Jerry Jones jumped on the other councilmen? Why has he singled Mr. Wells Out?

We think Carl Landis should stand on his own two feet and not hide behind Jerry Jones.

Senators Complete Big Victory Streak in N.L.

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National League has parted company with the Washington Senators. It's the best thing that's happened to the National League all spring.

Washington pushed over an unearned run in the eighth inning Sunday and edged the Houston Astros 3-2, completing an 11-game exhibition sweep over National League opposition.

The victory gave the Senators an over-all record of 15-5—best in the exhibition circuit.

Bernie Allen singled in the eighth, moved around to third on two infield outs and scored the winning run on one of three errors committed by Hector Torres, the Astros' rookie shortstop. Ken McMullen delivered the other Washington runs with a homer and sacrifice fly.

Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's All-star third baseman, was hit below the left ear by a Steve Blass pitch in the fifth inning of Pittsburgh's 3-1 victory over the Orioles. Robinson, who was wearing an ear flap on his batting helmet, escaped serious injury but will miss tonight's game against the Senators.

Cincinnati pounded the New York Yankees 8-2, scoring seven runs off Mel Stottlemyre in the first three innings. Mel Queen, who blanked New York on two hits through five frames, was the winner.

Tommy Davis' three-run homer and the shutout pitching of Bob Priddy, Bob Locker, Wilbur Wood and Don McMahon led the Chicago White Sox to a 6-0 victory over Philadelphia, ending the Phils' winning streak at five games.

Detroit, Minnesota and California won extra innings struggles.

The Tigers nipped St. Louis 6-5 in 12 innings. Wayne Comer delivering the tie-breaking run with a pinch double. Mickey Stanley hit a three-run homer and Willie Horton a solo blast for the winners.

Rod Carew's 12th-inning homer gave the Twins a 3-2 nod over Boston. Elston Howard drove in the Red Sox runs with a single and homer.

The Angels spotted Cleveland two runs in the top of the 11th, then rallied in the bottom of the inning for a 6-5 victory on run-scoring singles by Jay Johnstone, Rick Reichardt and Chuck Hinton.

Los Angeles clipped Ron Herbel for six runs in the first three innings and held off San Francisco 9-7 despite homers by the Giants' Willie McCovey and Jackie Hatt.

Atlanta rookie Ron Reed scattered four hits through seven innings and reliever Claude Raymond completed a seven-hit, 2-0 victory for the Braves over the New York Mets, who have been blanked twice in a row and six times.

The Indians' B squad peppered Ken Holtzman for six runs in five innings and ripped the Chicago Cubs 9-2 while the White Sox edged Oakland 4-3 on Rich Seversen's RBI single in the 10th inning.

Yarborough Big Man In Racing

ATLANTA (AP)—Cale Yarborough is on top of the racing world right now with two big victories and $70,000 in winnings this year.

But the onetime Soapbox Derby kid says his fight to get to the top hasn't been easy.

"Lots of times I felt it wasn't worth it and decided to quit," the 29-year-old racing veteran from Timmonsville, S.C., said after winning the Atlanta 500 Sunday.

"But then I'd sleep on it and decide I was just as good as those other guys, and go back at it."

Yarborough's perseverance has paid off and the hard-driving blond is in position to become the biggest money-winner ever in one year. He needs about $60,000 to break the record set by Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C.

"I don't know if I can break it, but I've got a real good start," said Yarborough, who averaged 125 miles an hour in winning the 500-mile Atlanta race worth $20,050. It was his second straight Atlanta title.

Yarborough won a duel with another 1968 Mercury driver, Lee Roy Yarborough of Columbia, S.C. They also finished 1-2 at the Daytona 500 a month ago.

Lee Roy won $9,285 in the race, with Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., pocketing $5,365 for third. Charlie Glazbach of Georgetown, Ind., was fourth and Darel Dieringer of Charlotte, N.C., was fifth.

Kentucky Derby Is Wide Open

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Kentucky Derby, America's most famous horse race, is shaping up as the most wide open in years.

There are at least 13 colts whose credentials stamp them as contenders in the 94th running of the $125,000 Triple Crown classic at Churchill Downs in Louisville, Ky. May 4.

Currently heading the list is Forward Pass and Alley Fighter, the winners of last Saturday's $134,000 Florida Derby and the $147,100 Santa Anita Derby, respectively.

The other leading 3-year-olds include Vitriolic, Captain's Gig, Iron Ruler, Wise Exchange, Bugged, Don B., T.V. Commercial, Dancer's Image, Verbatim, Clever Foot and Dewan.

Dewan, previously unbeaten in five starts, finished third in the Santa Anita Derby that elevated Alley Fighter into the limelight.

Alley Fighter, a Florida-bred owned by Charles Englehard of Far Hills, N.J., drew out in the stretch and beat Don B. by two lengths. Dewan was another length back. Jockey Laffit Pincay, Jr. rode Alley Fighter who ran the 1 1/8 miles under 120 pounds in 1:49.

Forward pass, flying the red silks of Calumet Farm, turned back the challenge of the favored Iron Ruler to win the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park by 2 1/2 lengths.

Alley Fighter and Forward Pass both are expected to be shipped to Keeneland in Lexington, Ky. for the Bluegrass Stakes during the meeting that opens Saturday.

Green Provides Spark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The depleted Philadelphia 76ers have managed to hang onto their five starters, but they had to replace their sparkplug to get moving against the New York Knicks.

Johnny Green, 34 years old and without a playoff game in his National Basketball Association career until nine days ago, provided the spark Sunday as the 76ers ran over the Knicks 123-105 in Philadelphia.

Filling in for hot-shot sixth man Billy Cunningham, who is out with a broken wrist, Green fused a third quarter rally with five points and six rebounds for a 92-80 lead, and the 76ers never looked back.

The victory put the injury-riddled world champion 76ers up 3-2 in this best-of-7 Eastern Division semifinal series with a

Rules Are Largest Obstacle

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Adapting to international rules remains the biggest hurdle U.S. Olympic basketball candidates must overcome, according to Coach Henry Iba.

"They have to be more aggressive on that board play," Iba said, "and they don't know how to foul for profit yet."

Iba made his remarks Saturday after the West beat the East 95-88 in the annual college all-star game held this year in conjunction with the Olympic pre-tials.

Both teams, along with the Central and College Division teams of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which also worked out here last week, went to Albuquerque, N.M., Sunday.

The four squads, plus teams from the Amateur Athletic Union, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, the National Junior College Athletic Association and the Armed Forces, will practice today through Wednesday. They will play three games each in a round-robin competition in the Olympic selection tournament Thursday through Saturday.

The Olympic team of 12 and six alternates is expected to be announced Sunday.

Iba, who is supervising the Olympic workouts, said fouling for profit meant that if a guard saw a player ready to shoot, he should foul him before the shot.

Under international rules, when a player is fouled before the shot, the ball is taken out of bounds. When the foul occurs in the act of shooting, two shots are awarded.

In the all-star encounter, Purdue's Rick Mount teamed with Jo Jo White of Kansas late in the second half to lead the West to victory. Mount topped all scorers with 24 points.

Pete Maravich of Louisiana State had 16 points and played an alert floor game for the East. He was named the game's top player.

chance to wrap it up tonight in New York.

"We're in the driver's seat now," said 76er Coach Alex Hannum.

Boston, expected to meet Philadelphia in the division final playoff after finishing second to the 76ers in regular season play, stood by its old standbys for a similar decisive third quarter that downed Detroit 110-96 in Boston.

The Celtics, also taking a 3-2 lead, can clinch their series in Detroit tonight.

The St. Louis Hawks, their backs against the wall at the Washington University Field House in St. Louis, rebounded to a 129-103 rout over San Francisco and sent that Western Division semifinal back to San Francisco Tuesday night.

The Warriors, who finished 13 games behind the Hawks in regular season play, still hold a 3-2 lead.

Favored Los Angeles did not let Chicago off the hook and won their set, 4-1, by crushing the Bulls 122-99 Sunday night in Los Angeles.

In the American Basketball Association, Denver evened its best-of-5 semifinal series at 2-2 by beating New Orleans 108-100.

Green, who has bounced around the NBA for nine years and came to the 76ers from San Diego in January, got nine points to help Philadelphia to a 56-all halftime tie. Playing with an injury — a dislocated finger — like four of the 76er starters, he finished with 16 points and 11 rebounds.

"I realize I have to make some contribution like Billy has been making," he said, calling Sunday's contribution his greatest thrill.

Hal Greer led Philadelphia with 38 points while Cazzie Russell had 31 for the Knicks.

Bailey Howell, Sam Jones and John Havlicek lit the fuse under Boston as the Celtics turned an eight-point deficit early in the third period into an 83-80 lead entering the fourth. Detroit never caught up.

St. Louis zoomed to a 17-point first quarter lead and San Francisco never got closer than 10 as Bill Bridges scored 28 points and Lou Hudson 26 for the Hawks.

The Lakers increased a 58-55 halftime lead to a 75-60 bulge with their own third-quarter blitz against the Bulls. Elgin Baylor led Los Angeles with 37 points.

Denver, aided when New Orleans' Doug Moe fouled out with the game tied 86-all, grabbed a 10-point lead as Willie Murrell scored 16 of his 28 points in the final period.

Jacklin Wins Golf Tournament

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Not since Ted Ray took the U.S. Open in 1920 had an English golfer won a major American tournament.

Then along came Tony Jacklin, quietly happy Tony Jacklin. A golfer with ice water in the veins—the kind that wins and wins and becomes great.

At the age of 23, Jacklin is a winner with every promise of joining the ranks of the great—which he thinks of as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Ben Hogan, but with no idea of patterning himself after any one of them.

He said he was nervous, but he never showed it as he faced down Palmer in the final round of the greater Jacksonville Open Sunday. He admitted he utilized "Arnie's Army" as his own battery-charger to a 15-under-par 273 and the $20,000 first money.

It was the first time a golfer from England had ever won on the Professional Golfers Association tour.

Even before Jacklin hit the jackpot, Player was calling him potentially the greatest English golfer since Henry Cotton and the man most likely to be his nation's next sports hero.

Wants Whole Team To Make an Effort

HANOVER, N.H. (AP)—Indiana coach Doc Counsilman knows his newly-crowned NCAA swimming champions can't make the Olympics en masse, but he wants them all to try.

"I'm not going to single out Olympic prospects," Counsilman said after his charged-up Hoosiers ended long years of frustration by making a runaway of the 1968 NCAA meet.

"We want every boy to train for the trials as long as he has the slightest ghost of a chance—and we think everyone on the team has that," added the veteran mentor who coached the U.S. Olympic team to its smashing success in 1964.

One Hoosier ace whose chances seem more corporeal than spectral has to be Charlie Hickcox, the meet's individual star with three record-breaking victories. The 21-year-old junior from Phoenix, Ariz., lowered American standards with a 1:52.5 clocking in the 200-yard individual medley and a :52.1 in defending his 100-yard backstroke crown, then erased his own I CAA and meet marks with a 1:54.6 effort to retain the 200-yard backstroke title.

The feats of Hickcox and his teammates dominated over-all competition in the three-day meet at Dartmouth college, but UCLA's Mike Burton turned in the biggest single highlight with a historic smashing of the 16-minute barrier in the 1,650-yard freestyle.

The 5-foot-9 "Mighty Mite" churned to a 15:59.4 clocking on Saturday's closing night. The feat, comparable to the sub four minute mile in track, eased his own record of 16:08 set a year ago.

The big story of the meet, though, had to be the victory of the long-thwarted Hoosiers, who had won just about every other honor in Counsilman's 10 years at the helm only to miss out on the top prize. For three years (1961-63) a football probation prevented Indiana from competing, then the Hoosiers finished second by heartbreaking margins the next three years and third in 1967.

This year, however, they left no doubts. Led by Hickcox, Captain Bill Utley and a group of divers, the Hoosiers piled up 346 points. Yale had 253, Southern California 231 and defending champion Stanford 205, with the rest of the field far behind.

Hudson Has Spark For St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"I wanted to play awhile longer," Lou Hudson said Sunday after he and Bill Bridges led St. Louis to a smashing 129-103 victory over San Francisco to keep the Hawks alive in the semifinal round of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

St. Louis went into the game with its back to the wall trailing three games to one, but Hudson came out of the dressing room with a hot hand. He reeled off six straight points to put the Hawks ahead at the start and they never trailed.

The series continues Tuesday night in San Francisco with the seventh game if necessary Thursday in St. Louis.

"We finally put together two good halves in one game," Coach Richie Guerin said after the Hawks pulled ahead by 17 points at the half. A second half margin reached 32 points.

"If we continue to play like that," Guerin added, "we should be able to get our game going and win two more."

Guerin said he started Hudson in hopes of getting more offense into the line-up. "We got off to a good start offensively and rebounded well," he added.

Bridges scored 28 points, Hudson 26 and Zelmo Beaty 21 as St. Louis turned in its best offensive game of the series.

The game was played in the Washington University field house, an old, poorly lighted gymnasium. Kiel Auditorium, the Hawks' home court, was not available.

Guerin said he didn't think the playing conditions had any effect on the game. Hudson, with a smile, added, "We won, so this is my favorite place now."

Angels Are Good, Wish to Be Better

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—

The California Angels, an American League novelty when they challenged for the pennant only one year after being created by expansion, have settled down to being just a good team trying to improve.

The Angels, now eight years old, were fifth last year, 7 1/2 games back, and helped knock Minnesota and Detroit out of the race.

The Angels are looking for regulars at four positions and had not hit a home run in 18 exhibition games.

In addition, pitcher Sammy Ellis, obtained from Cincinnati, was unpredictable.

Ellis, a 22-game winner in 1965, was hit hard as the exhibition season progressed.

While Ellis was having his troubles, the Angels were encouraged by the improvement of Fred Newman, whose arm ailments limited him to only five wins over the last two seasons. Newman was a mainstay of the pitching staff in 1964-65, with 13-10 and 14-16 records.

The Angels are hoping that one of them can join the starting rotation of George Brunet, 11-19 last year, Ricky Clark, 12-

11 and Jim McGlothlin, 12-8.

Best of the young pitching candidates are Ken Tatum, 12-6 at San Jose, Calif., and Marty Pattin, 12-11 at Seattle.

Jack Hamilton, 2-0 for the New York Mets and 9-6 for the Angels, and Minnie Rojas, 12-9, head the bullpen corps.

The Angels began the spring with only four certain regulars—Don Mincher, 273 with 25 homers, at first; Bobby Knoop, 245, at second; Jim Fregosi, 290, at short; and Rick Reichardt, 265 with 17 homers, in left.

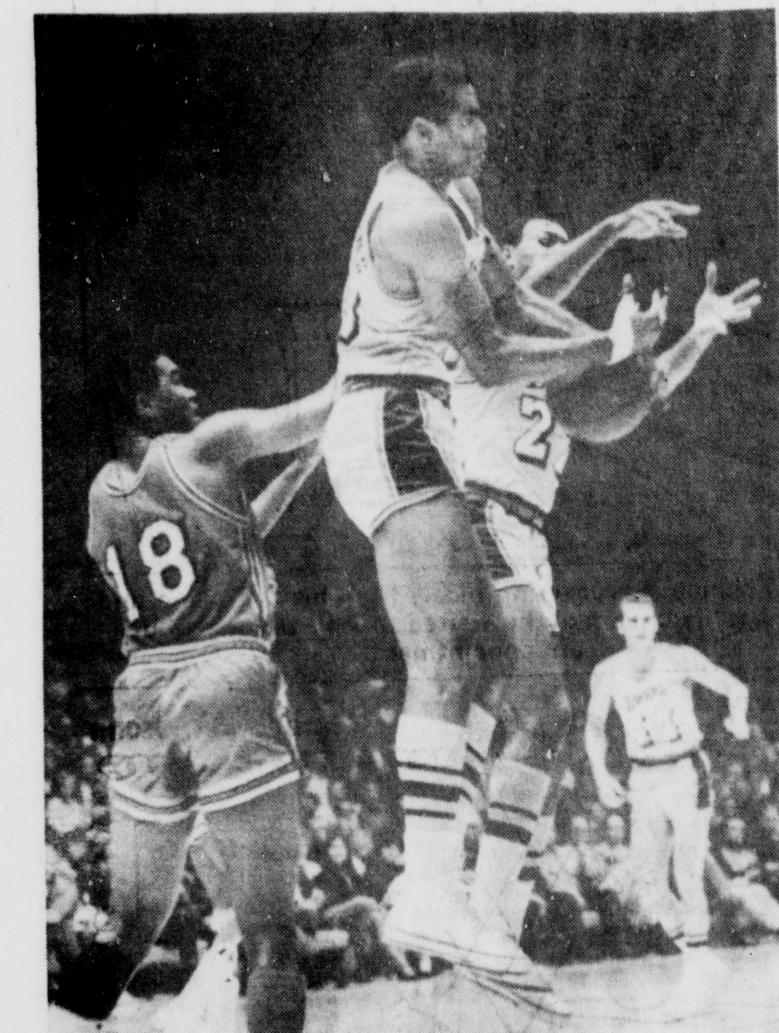

Catchers Bob Rodgers, 219, and Tom Satriano, 224, were challenged by Bob Taylor, Tom Egan and Orlando McFarlane.

Aurelio Rodriguez, 308 at Seattle, could beat out slick fielding Paul Schaal at third.

Chuck Hinton, obtained from Cleveland, was in the center-field race with Jay Johnstone, 209, and Roger Repoz, 250.

Jimmie Hall, 249, may be platooned in right with Bubba Morton, 313 in 63 games last year.

Veteran Woodie Held, also having a fine spring, lends pinch-hitting and infield strength.

Squeeze Play

Lakers' Tom Hawkins, front, and Elgin Baylor squeeze out Chicago's McCoy McLemore as they take in a rebound in the first period of their playoff game. Hawkins took it and passed to West, right, and Jerry made the two points. (UPI)

King-Sized Blanket For King-Sized Bed

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—We recently bought a king-sized bed and decided that an electric blanket would be cheaper than several blankets of that large size. After shopping around, we discovered that it would be less expensive to purchase two twin-sized electric blankets than one king-sized one. I sewed them together and we now have a king-sized blanket with dual controls.—MRS. J. M.

DEAR POLLY—Our kitchen table used to stand close to the wall and as a result there are grease marks on the wood paneling. Perhaps someone knows how I can remove these stains.—MRS. M. W. Sr.

DEAR POLLY—I enjoy reading the Pointers in your column and have one you might like to pass on to your readers. An easy emergency ice pack is any package of frozen food taken from the freezer. Use it just as you would any ice pack—quick and no dripping. —DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY—This is to answer the reader who has some old Caruso and Harry Lauder phonograph records. There are thousands of these around and only very certain ones are desired by collectors. Swarms of people buy these old records but pay little for them. Most old 78s are not worth anything except what you can get for them. Many junk shops sell them for about a dime each. Among all the accumulators, there are some actual collectors going after rare records and some of these rare ones do bring good prices. It is a needle-in-the-haystack affair and record collecting is so esoteric that there just cannot be any guidelines for the outsiders.—WILLIAM

DEAR READERS—A large dealer in old records told me that Harry Lauder records do not sell at all. On the average, they pay about a quarter each for Caruso records. If one has a great quantity that could amount to something, you might look in the want ad sections of some antiques magazines. There is always the chance of an exception to a rule if one can find the right person.—POLLY

Johnson Order Clashes With Military's Advice

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's order halting most bombing and naval shelling of North Vietnam clashes with the expressed convictions of key military leaders that it is vital to hit harder.

Johnson ordered Sunday night U.S. planes and warships "to make no attacks on North Vietnam, except in the area north of the Demilitarized Zone." Presumably, the order was effective at once.

He permitted strikes only in a sector "where the continuing enemy build-up directly threatens allied forward positions and where the movements of their troops and supplies are clearly related to that threat."

The President's action exempts almost 90 per cent of North Vietnam's 17 million people and most of its territory—including Hanoi, the port of Haiphong and the rice-producing regions of food-short North Vietnam.

Military sources said they believe the bombing and shelling will be compressed into a section south of Dong Hoi, a major point on the supply lines, about 35 miles above the DMZ.

This section, they said, includes the Mu Gia pass, through which many of North Vietnam's trucks drive with their loads of war supplies and munitions for North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers in South Vietnam. One member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff told a reporter privately within the past 10 days that he feels strongly the United States should broaden and intensify the air war against the North.

In view of the Communist winter offensive, this high-ranking officer said the United States should lift restrictions on bombing the Haiphong harbor and docks, across which flow much of the Soviet-supplied arms, petroleum products and food.

"I'm for hitting anything that supports the enemy's war effort in the South," he said. He did not rule out striking the dike system to ruin North Vietnam's rice crop.

Other senior officers, contacted after the President's limited-bombing order, made it plain they oppose it.

Recalling that all the JCS members went on record last summer as strongly supporting the bombing, one officer said: "I don't know of any military men who have changed their minds."

Some uniformed professionals recalled that, during a four-day Lunar New Year bombing pause last year, American reconnaissance planes spotted trucks and barges flocking southward with an estimated 25,000 tons of war gear—many times the normal movement.

They said they fear the same thing will happen now, contending that the supply flow must be interdicted all along the supply route, not just at the bottom of the funnel.

Johnson's order comes at a time when skies are clearing over the North after the months-long monsoon, creating weather conditions for more intensive bombing.

Only a few hours before Johnson's speech to the nation, retired Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, a top presidential adviser, declared himself against a bombing pause.

"I have always opposed that because I think in the long run it would not be remunerative unless there are clear indications which are not apparent now," said the former JCS

Say Play Will Not Work Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the world's top players, Roy Emerson and Arthur Ashe, predicted today that the International Lawn Tennis Federation's plan to create a new category — the authorized player — would not work.

"It seems awful complicated to me—I don't think it will work," said Emerson, the veteran Australian who has won all the world's top amateur titles, some several times.

"It's ridiculous. I don't think it will last six months," said Ashe, Negro member of the U.S. Davis Cup Team.

Ashe, a lieutenant in the U.S. Army, upset the top-seeded Emerson 6-4, 6-4, 7-5 Saturday night for the men's crown in the Garden Challenge Trophy Tournament.

It was Emerson's last appearance as an amateur. Today in Los Angeles he is slated to sign a pro contract guaranteeing him $100,000 a year for three years.

The women's title went to Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., who defeated Judy Tegart of Australia 7-5, 7-5. The little Texas girl scored a smashing upset in the semifinal over world amateur queen Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., who also signs a pro contract today for a guaranteed $80,000 over two years.

Shortly before the players took the court for the Garden final, the ILTF in Paris approved a limited number of open tournaments and decided on three categories of players.

They are pros, who play for money, authorized players, top amateurs who can demand appearance and expense money, and pure amateurs, who are supposed to play for the fun of it.

chairman and U.S. ambassador to Saigon.

Taylor said, "I would be always afraid of backing away from an issue such as the bombing because I think it would convey the impression of weakness and uncertainty here at home."

When Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford was before the Senate Armed Services Committee for confirmation in late January, he said "I do not" favor cessation of bombing of North Vietnam.

"Up until now, I have felt that it would be damaging to our cause," Clifford said at that time. But he indicated the time might come when conditions might change.

There was no immediate word as to Clifford's current views on the bombing question, although he long has been one of Johnson's chief counselors.

The bombing restriction overshadowed Johnson's announcement adding up to an increase of about 25,000 men in Vietnam.

This boost, to be carried out over a period of about five months, will raise U.S. forces to a new high of 550,000 in Vietnam.

The president's speech carried no indication of any change in the ground strategy of the war.

Without spelling out numbers, Johnson said there will be a call-up of some Reservists to supply some of the additional support troops for Vietnam. Indications point to a small call-up.

Although he didn't say so, the context of Johnson's statement suggested some of these reservists might be sent overseas—the first to be committed to the combat zone in this war.

Americans Mixed In Reactions

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans, some shocked into disbelief, reacted to President Johnson's announcement that he would not run again with comments ranging from "pretty wonderful" to "to tragic."

"He made that announcement?" asked Joseph Kelley of Boston, when asked for his reaction to the President's surprise statement Sunday night.

"I don't believe you," Kelley said. "And if he did, I don't believe him. I'm skeptical about everything that man does."

Donald J. Cohen, an attorney from Manhattan, called Johnson's statement "very moving and tragic."

In San Francisco however, Don Cote, said "I was pleased ... I think he believed he couldn't win if he did run ..."

Irving Goldstein, also of San Francisco, disagreed, saying he was "shocked and sorry" that Johnson was not going to run. "It appears that his experience necessitates his continuing in office. I do not think any of the other candidates are qualified."

A high school teacher from Denver, Tom Radford, said "It was the closest thing he could to ending the war. He made the offer at a time when criticism had come to a head in the Democratic party and from the citizenry. It will place the Democrats in a helter-skelter race."

Lack of public support was cited by other persons as a possible reason for Johnson's withdrawal. "As long as the people are not behind him," said Steve Slekovac of St. Petersburg, Fla., "he might as well give up and give somebody else a chance."

Charles P. Connell, a Manhattan lawyer, said "I think it was a wise decision ... because of dissension among the people at large." He said he thought Johnson's decision would "have a benign effect on the conflict in Vietnam ... He is sincere. He is through. He knows it."

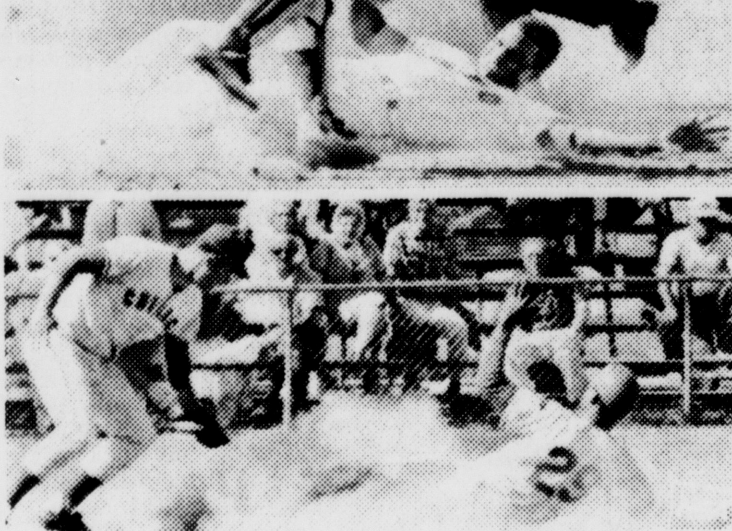

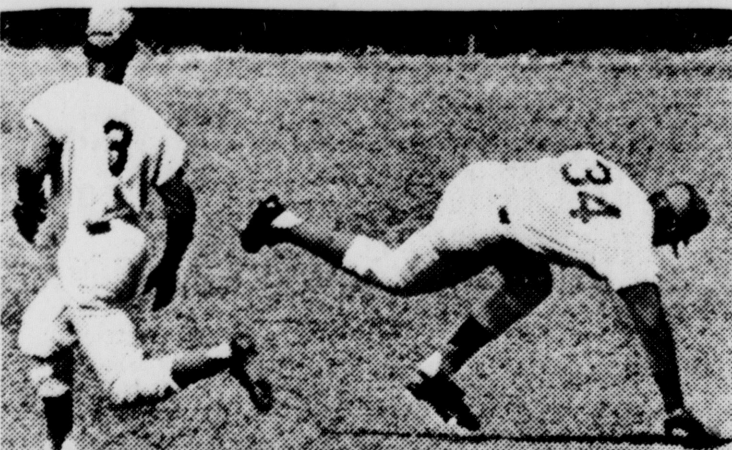

Marion G. Newey of Brighton, Mass., said she did not know why Johnson decided not to run. "I can't decide whether he's afraid he'll lose or maybe is worn out," she said.

Another Massachusetts woman, Mrs. Joseph Rothernburg of West Roxbury, said she and her husband were "shocked." We're now listening to the tape again trying to soak it in. We felt Johnson was trying his best."

Facsimile Edition Of Whitman Book

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Public Library has published in facsimile Walt Whitman's copy of the 1860 edition of "Leaves of Grass" which contains notes on additions and revisions for the 1867 edition.

Oscar Lion, 92, a Whitman collector, presented the book to the library in 1953 and contributed $30,000 to the production of the facsimile.

Income Tax Extensions Aren't Easy to Obtain

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Between 300,000 and 400,000 individuals are expected to apply for extensions beyond the April 15 deadline for filing federal income tax returns. More than 50 per cent of them might be successful.

Extensions are granted "for any legitimate reason," according to the Internal Revenue Service. But don't get your hopes up. That word "legitimate" is interpreted narrowly.

An earthquake, such as occurred in Alaska four years ago, or floods, such as occur around filing time, are considered legitimate reasons. Serious illness or inability to obtain records may or may not be legitimate.

The majority of extensions are granted for acts of God, such as floods, although automatic 60-day extensions apply to citizens who are out of the country at filing time. In all extension cases interest must be paid.

Combat zone military and civilian personnel are in an entirely different category. They have six months in which to file after leaving the combat zone. And they pay no interest for their late filing. But this is a rare exception.

If you explain that your accountant is overloaded with work, which might be true around filing time, your chance of obtaining an extension is slim. If, however, your accountant is the only one intown and you can't find another, then you have a chance.

Accountants, in fact, are quite disturbed about being turned down on extension applications. The National Public Accountant, a journal, says this letter resulted in a rejection:

"Extension for filing is requested because of my illness with the flu during which I was confined to bed March 8-13, after which my two preschool children also had the flu. Our doctor was Dr. —"

"The same week my wife was ordered to bed by Dr. — of — hospital with a threatened miscarriage, which did occur on March 25. During the month my office assistant, who is my mother, developed high blood pressure and is now in — hospital seriously ill."

Not only was the request rejected, said the journal, but a request for reconsideration also was turned down.

The IRS people, often portrayed as coldly dedicated acolytes serving a monster electronic computer that ruthlessly orders people around, are anything but that. They maintain, in their defense, that they must uphold the law.

Sheldon Cohen, Internal Revenue commissioner, says extensions are allowed when:

"... the taxpayer has made timely and reasonable efforts to file his return on time but finds himself unable to do so because of circumstances beyond his control."

Extension requests must be made before the filing deadline of midnight April 15. The letter should be addressed to the district director. In return the applicant may receive a Form 2688, which requires detailed explanations.

If the request is granted, the individual generally has 60 days from April 15 in which to file. For every day of this time he uses, however, he must pay interest on the amount due at the rate of 6 per cent a year.

If the request is denied, the applicant is told to file his return by April 15. If that date already has passed, the applicant is given 10 days from the date of the rejection.

There's another side to the picture though. If the government can't get your refund back to you within 45 days it, too, must pay that same 6 per cent interest. Last year individuals received more than $33 million this way.

Says Johnson Move Came As No Surprise

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Except for Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, Missouri Democrats generally were startled by President Johnson's decision not to seek re-election.

"I was not as surprised as some may have been," Hearnes said, "since I had said all along that this was a possibility."

"I feel that the President's decision makes it more logical than ever that the Missouri delegation to the national convention should go uncommitted," the governor added.

Sen. Edward V. Long was at home at Clarksville when he heard the announcement.

"I was shocked and surprised as I suppose everyone was," said Long, a candidate for re-nomination. "President Johnson has made a very difficult decision. He put his desire for peace and the needs of the office of the presidency above the desire to be renominated."

Delton Houtchens, state Democratic Chairman, said the decision was shocking. He said Johnson had overwhelming support among Missouri Democrats.

"If President Johnson does not run, the attitude of the party in Missouri will have to be re-evaluated," Houtchens said. "As to what will happen among the contenders, I would not be in a position to comment."

Work Out 111 Rules On Fish Handling

ROME (AP) — The U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization has worked out 111 rules for handling fresh fish.

"The main requirements for good handling of fish are to chill it quickly and keep it chilled from the catch to the retailer," the report said.

It went on to recommend that manual handling of the fish be avoided, that only potable water be used to wash the fish, and that fish unfit to eat be separated from food fish.

Holding Action Turned Out As Dismal Failure

WHITE CITY, Kan. (AP) — Withholding grain and livestock from market to bolster sagging farm prices has been "a dismal and costly failure," a National Farmers Union official said Sunday.

Wilfred Elliott, president of the Morris County Farmers Union and co-ordinator of the withholding action, sent a letter to NFU leaders over the state.

stock markets have proven that our efforts have not helped our markets but have forced many of our best buyers to other areas," Elliott said.

"Packer buyers have drawn upon vast reserves of livestock in feedlots throughout the country."

N.F.O. Holding Action News
IS SWIFT AND COMPANY BIG ENOUGH TO BEAT THE FARMERS DOWN?

Swift has an investment of approximately $400,000,000. This doesn't amount to anymore than the assets of two highly productive agricultural counties.

In our opinion Swift and Company is the backbone of the industry and is holding back those packers who have not already signed NFO Contracts. It is also our opinion they have used their position to keep the price of the livestock down, and the rest will follow Swift and Company. COULD THIS BE A CONSPIRACY ON THE PART OF SWIFT & COMPANY AND OTHER PACKERS?

NFO CONTRACTS ARE BASED ON:
1. A floor price or a minimum price of 23¢ per pound on hogs, 32¢ per pound on choice steers, and 29¢ a pound on lambs.
2. A uniform, guaranteed supply to packers.
3. A pricing formula for grade and weight.

Some of the major packers have offered a contract tied to the future's market which is nothing different than the present unsatisfactory market system.

INTEGRATION OF LIVESTOCK IS TAKING PLACE

We know:
1. Some packers are trying to sign contracts on their own terms with individual livestock producers. (This then would be captive supply.)
2. The captive supply of livestock within the hands of packers is about exhausted now.
3. The critical or important supply of available slaughtered livestock is now in the hands of farmers and producers who are now holding.

The question now boils down to this: —
Are farmers going to accept contracts on the packers' terms? Or are they going to join NFO and hold for the prices and contracts with the floor?

PACKERS CONTINUE TO SIGN NFO CONTRACTS
Many packers continue to sign minimum contracts and negotiations continue with others. A few of the major packers are trying to use stalling tactics.

TIGHTEN THE HOLD

NFO members must continue to hold their livestock and keep the pressure on the packers until they do sign NFO contracts.

SWIFT REFUSES TO DEBATE WITH FARMERS

Swift was requested to have a representative present at public meeting in Georgia on March 28, 1968. Over 1000 farmers attended but Swift did not send a representative to discuss the issue with farmers. WHY?

Government Reports Show Holding Action Effective

"Here is a story that ought to bring some satisfaction to those in NFO ranks," reported veteran farm newscaster, Herb Clambeck, station WHO, Des Moines, Iowa. "After weeks of denials that holding actions have had any effect, the United Press International release dated March 28, 1968, Does the Govt. report wholesale livestock prices have increased 7% since Mid-January, primarily as a result of the holding action being carried on by NFO?"

JOIN NFO AND PUT A PRICE ON YOUR PRODUCTION

Join NFO so that not a bushel of grain or a head of livestock moves until it goes through NFO contracts.

Are Habit Hit Songs With Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When he begins to rattle off the names of songs he's written—"Alfie," "The Look of Love," "What the World Needs Now is Love," "What's New Pussycat," "I Say a Little Prayer"—Burt Bacharach's humility gets the best of him and he refuses to continue. "I've stopped counting the hits," says the handsome young composer. "There are more important things."

Three times nominated for Academy Awards, Bacharach and his collaborator, Hal David, are up this year for "The Look of Love."

Burt admits he'd like to win, "but it's such an honor to be nominated three years in a row. And one realizes, after all, that the Oscar is just a possession."

Last year Bacharach was nominated for "Alfie" and the year before for "What's New Pussycat."

Now, with disc jockeys announcing his name along with each record, Bacharach, 38, lean and blue-eyed with salt-and-pepper hair, is riding the wave of success like an experienced surfer—careful to keep from toppling.

The cornerstone of his creativity is the belief that he must write songs that please Burt Bacharach.

"At this point, people will tell me a song sounds great even if it's only mediocre. In the end you have to rely on your own ear. If something isn't right I know it and I have to start again."

Bacharach, who says he often works all night to keep up with his commitments, has sent songs into the marketplace believing they would flop. "I never thought 'Wives and Lovers' would go," he recalls, "or that 'Alfie' would be popular with both adults and kids."

What is the secret of bridging the generation gap?

"I don't know. It's some unknown mystique of dramatic and emotional content," says Bacharach. "I guess the kids have become more sophisticated and the adults have become less snobbish."

Raised in New York, he graduated from a Canadian college and several music schools. In 1959 he wrote a song called "Magic Moments" which became a Perry Como hit.

But soon after he was offered the job of conducting the orchestra for an around-the-world concert tour with Marlene Dietrich.

Then one day he began composing again, and the hits started piling up.

That was about the same time that he discovered singer Dionne Warwick. He now produces all of her records and manages her career.

He is married to actress Angie Dickinson and they have a daughter, Lea, nearly 2.

His latest project is scoring the musical version of "The Apartment" scheduled to open on Broadway in the fall. Neil Simon has written the book. Hal David is doing lyrics and David Merrick is producing.

The show is to be called "Promises, Promises," and Merrick is reported so pleased with Burt's score that he has asked him to do another show.

But Burt has no definite plans.

Wins Scholarship

Ronald W. Fuchs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Fuchs, Concordia, has been awarded a scholarship from the Aid Association for Lutherans, a fraternal life insurance society.

He is a student at Concordia Teachers College, River Forest, Ill., and a graduate of St. Paul's College at Concordia. Fuchs plans to become a teacher.

"THE WORKING FOR SEDALIA TEAM" WHO WILL WORK FOR YOU ON THE CITY COUNCIL?

HE WILL!

AARON W. HALLER
COUNCILMAN FIRST WARD

I believe a councilman should be the representative of people, and thus must consult and advise with them. I urge all of you to become informed on all issues, and if I am elected, let me hear from you, give me your thoughts on all matters that concern you.

HE WILL!

HARRY S. NAUGEL
COUNCILMAN SECOND WARD

If elected to represent the people of the Second Ward, I pledge all Sedalians that I will work for efficient, responsible local government. I will secure full value for each tax dollar spent for goods and services.

HE WILL!

CARL H. LANDES
COUNCILMAN THIRD WARD

In these times it is apparent that the need for ABLE, SINCERE and HONEST representation is essential. Let us not move BACKWARDS to a "FACTION" controlled councilman, but ahead to sound leadership.

HE DOES!

GEORGE DUGAN JR.
COUNCILMAN FOURTH WARD

During the past two years Sedalia has benefited by having George E. Dugan, Jr., represent you by serving as councilman for the Fourth Ward. The fruitful advantages to the community of his planning is permanent testimonial to the devotion he has toward Sedalia's present and future welfare.

WHO WILL WORK FOR YOU IN THE CITY OFFICE'S?

SHE WILL!

SHIRLEY HAWKINS
CITY COLLECTOR

If elected I pledge courteous, efficient service to all taxpayers and citizens. I will do my best to eliminate needless waste and instigate a new record keeping method that will aid in collecting taxes from those who have managed a "free ride."

HE WILL!

PAUL BIDSTRUP
POLICE JUDGE

To seek public office is a privilege and a duty. To assume the duties of the office expresses a will to accept the responsibility of the office and to conduct the business of the office in such a manner as to bring no shame upon the community.

SHE WILL!

MRS. N. B. PATTON
TREASURER

The limited time of our Mayor and Councilmen doesn't allow time for double checking, which sometimes allows an irregularity to go unnoticed. Therefore if elected City Treasurer I will act as a second pair of eyes to review at times these unfortunate instances, which have in the past gone unnoticed.

HE WILL!

HARRY YOUNG ASSESSOR

The office of Assessor, if functioned properly, is of importance to all. If elected, I will support Sedalia's future by being active in any capacity, for good, I am called on to assist.
